

As your authorised Rockwell Automation distributor, NHP will be applying revised list pricing across selected Rockwell Automation product lines, effective 14 June 2026. Changes will vary by product line, with some prices rising and others reducing.

Key factors contributing to this pricing update

- Ongoing Trade and Tariff Changes: Continued changes to U.S. trade measures have resulted in tariff adjustments across multiple countries, with some tariffs being removed and others introduced. These changes have impacted costs across parts of the Rockwell Automation portfolio.
- Rising Key Material Costs: The rapid expansion and construction of AI data centres has driven significant demand for key materials, including semiconductors, memory and critical metals. These pressures have resulted in supply constraints and increased manufacturing cost structures.

To help you plan, updated item pricing, with detail by product line, will be available for download via your NHP Online account from 25 May 2026.

We value your continued partnership with NHP. Your local Account Representative is on hand to walk you through what these changes mean for your business - please don't hesitate to reach out.

Yours Sincerely,
Michael Liberatore
Chief Sales Officer

